This three-hour experiential workshop will help any TT Practitioner learn how the chakras can assist in TT assessment and treatment. First, you'll review the energy field anatomy and the structure and function of the chakras. You'll examine the TT Process, with its shifts in consciousness representing your physical, emotional, psychodynamic, mental, and spiritual natures. From there, you'll discuss some of the multitude of emotional and psychological issues associated with each of the chakras and explore how these issues either help or hinder your own healing work. Expect more awareness about the most fascinating topics of all – yourself and TT! A variety of exercises will assist you in integrating what you learn into your Therapeutic Touch practice. Time well spent for anyone involved in the healing arts.
